Background

- Schools and teachers are in a critical transition phase where the increasingly technology-rich learning environments and student-centric pedagogy are gaining ground in current practices.
- The focus of teaching is shifting from content to developing key competences.
- Schools and teachers are also directly impacted by developments about modernising or transforming physical learning environments.

Main objective

To support schools and related stakeholders in the transition from a conventional and teacher-centred classroom into teaching practices that promote active learning with the support of innovative learning environments and use of relevant ICT.

Objectives

- To provide evidence-based insight into active learning helping to understand the principles of active learning in innovative learning environment settings.
- To develop a training programme that will help schools to apply the principles of active learning in different learning space settings.
- To guide schools and teachers to audit their current learning spaces and guide them adapting them (e.g. at classroom level, at school level, using the 'learning lab' approach) also in a resource-effective way.
- To establish and animate a participative network (a community) of practitioners who engage in exchanges and professional development around teaching in innovative learning environments
- To inquire into the effects, and perceived benefits and challenges of active learning approach.
- To provide policy-makers with recommendations on how to support schools or local authorities to adapt and design innovative learning environments.
